

COLOMBIAN TREATY LISTED FOR PASSAGE BY U. S. SENATE WILL CORRECT OLD WRONG

To Receive Twenty-Five Million Dollars and Special Rights and Privileges in Panama Canal Zone After Seventeen Years.

TEDDY TOOK IT AND LET SENATE TALK

Washington, April 20.—The Senate is expected to ratify the Colombian treaty late today. By a vote which indications are will be well over the record two thirds, the Senate will thus dispose of the controversy which has been waged with South American republics ever since Panama revolted in 1903 and the Administration of Theodore Roosevelt took from Panama the canal site. Colombia charged the United States with inciting the revolution then claiming the canal site.

Singularly the first treaty offered by the Harding administration is one which Republican Senators have bitterly opposed during the last 17 years and more particularly during the last four years in which period a pact negotiated by Wm. J. Bryan with Colombia had been before the Senate.

The treaty to be voted on today gives Colombia 25 million dollars and special rights and privileges of the Panama Canal Zone and paves the way for fixing the Panama-Colombia Boundary.

STEP LIVELY GENTLEMEN; DON'T CROWD NEAREST CUSTOMS OFFICE PHILADELPHIA

By Raymond Clapper

Wash., April 20.—Fully one million quarts of imported whiskey, gin and brandied liquors certified as pure by the government, now is begging for customers at $1 a gallon, Chief Ashworth of the United States Customs office stated here today. The whiskey for sale by the customs service is that which is seized from border runners. Before offering it for sale the customs service had it opened and none is offered which is less than 40% alcohol. "Customs houses all over the country are overflowing with this seized liquor," said Ashworth. "Unless we find purchasers we will have to destroy it. It is accumulating faster than we can sell it."

The customs officers are embarrassed by the way it is being seized. It makes the office target for burglaries and costs money to guard them. Probably we have more than one million quarts. In trying to dispose of the liquor we circularized the hospitals and drug stores but for some unexplained reason we found few purchasers. We are anxious to get rid of it."

To secure this liquor it is necessary to have a permit issued by the federal prohibition unit. Hospitals, druggists, manufacturers of hair tonics and others who can show that they use liquor for non-beverage purposes are able to get a permit.

MATTER OF RAISING NECESSARY REVENUE WILL MAKE TAX REVISION VERY SLOW

Washington, April 20.—A substitute for the sales tax was being considered by the Congressional committee which is handling the tax revision legislation. Members of the committee admit that with the defeat of the sales tax certain and with pledges that this Congress will eliminate and reduce excess profits, incomes and other taxes they are uncertain where the government is going to get its money. "It will be at least September before the tax legislation will go through," said Senator Penrose, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

GOOD ROADS DAY FOR DUCKETT HILL IMPROVEMENT

Owing to the condition of the Lawrence township road fund, financially speaking, the Supervisors of the township feel unable to complete the new road up Duckett's hill leading into Mt. Joy, this summer. This being so, it puts the people who have to travel that way up against considerable of a proposition, as next fall, or after any heavy rain, it will be almost impossible to travel either the new road or the old one.

It has been suggested by the people having to travel out through that section of Lawrence and Goshen, that the Supervisors name a "Good Roads Day" and ask everybody interested, to meet on that date and give them aid toward completing the new road.

The matter was put up to the Supervisors and they have suggested Monday, April 25th. Therefore, everybody interested in this road, and that should include all automobilists and Clearfield business men, as well as the farmers in that section, are requested to turn out on Monday next and do what they can to complete the road. Many hands will make a small job of it. Let's all go.

The Paterson Clay Products Company will donate the ashes necessary to put the road in shape and that is necessary is for a sufficient number of trucks and wagons.

A REAL SUCCESSFUL SCHOOL

The Gillingham school in Girard township closed April 12th. Total enrollment for the year has been thirty-seven, average attendance thirty-three. Myrtle Coulter, Clara Bradford, Olive Bradford, Thelma Houshelt, Marie Martell, Alta Ethel, Blake and Boyd Kephart and Harold Hoover attended every day and the first five named were not tardy.

During the school year the school raised $66.00 and had the interior of the room painted besides buying a considerable amount of school 'helps'. The pupils also earned a flag by selling lead pencils.

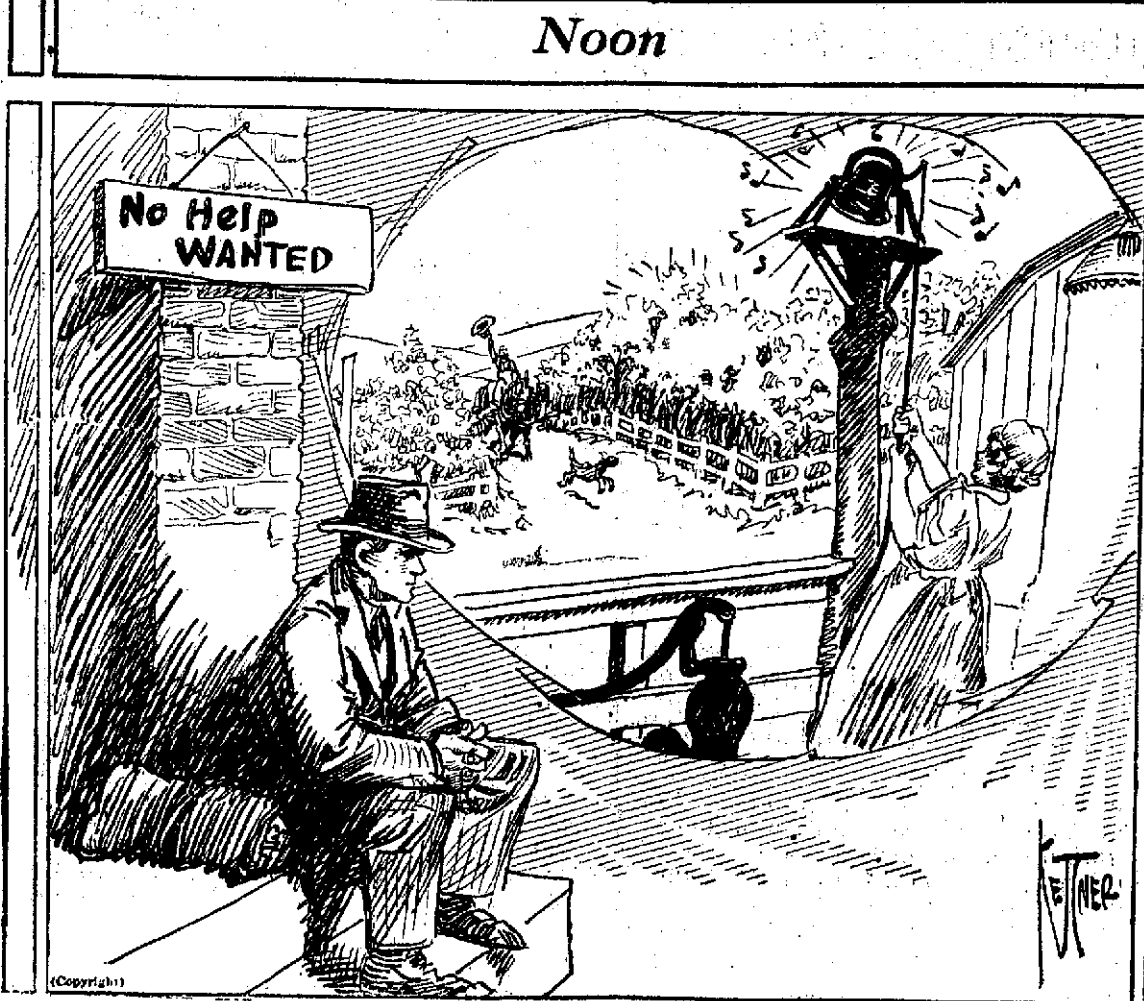

A. W. Leonardson and little daughter, Jane, left today for Warren, to spend several days.

The Daughters of Isabella held a delightful 500 party in St. Francis School Hall last evening. About 20 tables were in play. A delicious lunch was served.

John Flegal, who has been a patient in the hospital for the past couple of weeks, was able to be taken to his home on Cherry st., today.

Alton Shoff, of Curwensville, transacted business in town yesterday.

One day, with the proper turn-out will do the trick, and as there is no other way to get the road completed this year, it should be done.

DR. J. BELL NEFF, NOTED METHODIST MINISTER AND LECTURER DIES SUDDENLY

Dr. J. Bell Neff, one of the best known Methodist preachers in Western Pennsylvania, died suddenly at Sykesville, Tuesday afternoon, while enroute to DuBois for the purpose of attending the homecoming of former pastors at the Fiftieth Anniversary program of the First Methodist church of that city, of which church he had been a beloved pastor for a period of six years.

Dr. Neff, who is now stationed at Sharon, Pa., had left that city for the purpose of coming to DuBois. He has several relatives in Sykesville, and had stopped off at that place for the purpose of paying them a visit. After having visited there, he got into M. B. Goff's automobile for the purpose of continuing his journey to DuBois. It was about twenty minutes after four o'clock that the start to DuBois was made. About one-quarter of a mile outside of Sykesville, directly in front of the home of William H. Keller, Mr. Goff noticed that Dr. Neff was sick. He saw that the sickness was serious and he secured Mr. Keller's aid in supporting Dr. Neff, while he drove back to Sykesville for medical aid. The automobile had just reached the Methodist parsonage in Sykesville when Dr. Neff breathed his last in the arms of Mr. Keller. Heart trouble is given as the cause of his death. Dr. Neff, it is stated, had apparently been in the best of health a few hours previous to his death and was the same jovial, congenial man as he had been during his entire lifetime. Mr. Goff had driven to Sykesville on business and noticed Dr. Neff on the streets. He stopped and asked him if he were coming to DuBois, and the doctor replied that he was. Mr. Goff invited him to come along and the invitation was accepted. Dr. Neff remarked when he entered the car that he was not feeling and too well, and within a short time was taken violently sick.

Dr. Neff was a man well known throughout this district. He served as pastor of the First Methodist church in DuBois for six years, and later served as district superintendent for six years, residing in DuBois during that time. In addition to serving his congregation in a manner that was highly satisfactory, he was also widely known as a lecturer, having four or five different lectures that were highly interesting. "Knives and Forks," "The King Row and Crowned," "Grandfather's Clock" and several others always provided a crowded house for the doctor wherever he appeared.

Dr. Neff was a man of charming personality, radiating good fellowship and encouragement whenever and wherever he was. He was a man who made friends readily and received a warm welcome all over the district.

James Bell Neff was born in the borough of New Washington, Clearfield county, Pa., in 1862. John Andrew Neff, his father, was of Swiss nationality. Margaret Blaine Neff, his mother, was Scotch-Irish. They were both ardent Methodists. Dr. Neff was brought up on the farm, attending the district school in the winter, and a select school in the summer. At the age of 17 he entered the New Washington Academy, where he was a student four years. Later he studied one year in Carver Seminary, and taught school four terms. While teaching in Troutville he was united in marriage with Margaret Reed, a devout Christian girl, who had much to do in quickening a slumbering conviction that he ought to be a Christian. He was led to make a public confession of Christ in a union meeting held by Cumberland Presbyterians and Evangelical Lutherans. It was in October, 1887. He united with the Methodist church in Luthersburg, six miles distant there being no class in Troutville. D. C. Planette gave him exhorters' license and he was granted local preacher's license by the district conference, held in Bellevue in 1877, his license bearing the signature of B. P. Delo, presiding elder. He was received on trial by the Erie conference in 1880. Grove City College honored him by conferring a degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1898.

Dr. Neff is survived by his wife; three sons and daughters by his first wife, Mrs. Calvin Swope, Miss Grace Neff, at home, and Abner Neff.

Dr. Neff was a member of Garfield Lodge, F. & A. M., No. 559, DuBois; Jefferson Chapter Royal Arch Masons, Brookville, and of Bethany Commandery, Knights Templar, DuBois.

ALLEGED FORGER HELD FOR COURT

I. S. Burfield, a Cameron county man, was lodged in jail by Sheriff Gorman yesterday, following a hearing on a forgery charge at Karthaus. It is alleged that last January Burfield became possessed of a check for $21, issued by Deserion Court Officer Stock, to a young woman at Surveyor, who was the subject or beneficiary of a court order, and forging the name of the payee he had the check cashed at the Karthaus bank.

POLICE HEARING OPEN TO PUBLIC THIS EVENING

The flare-up in Council over the police proposition was the sole topic of conversation about town following the publication of Monday night's Council proceedings in The Progress last evening.

As was stated in that report the Police Committee of Council will give the accused policemen a chance to face their accusers at a public hearing in the Council chamber this evening at 8 o'clock.

Chief of Police Hitt is naturally very indignant over the action taken and in an interview with a Progress representative, charges unfair treatment. He asked to be quoted in the statement that if Council or any individual Councilman had any charge to make against him or his assistant, acting patrolman Keogh, the charges should have been presented to Council, the Burgess or Police Committee and they be given opportunity to meet their accusers and refute the charges before any action being taken by Council. He says he has been on the job and doing his duty at all times since taking the position here, and challenges any person to truthfully say anything to the contrary. He says the police activities are best shown from the fact that the alleged complaints are all from persons or their friends who have been subject to correction or reprimand by the police. That all the enemies he has made in Clearfield were made in performance of his duty and in carrying out the orders of his superiors, and if the police are to be censured or penalized for doing their duty, it is time to shut up shop.

The Police Committee propose to conduct a thorough investigation tonight and invite any person with a grievance or evidence against the police, to present themselves at the Council room at 8 o'clock and they will be heard. All witnesses will be asked to testify under oath. The accused policemen will be represented by counsel. Mayor Chase will swear the witnesses and Chairman Gilliland will preside over the hearing. The testimony will be taken by a stenographer, and borough solicitor Urey will look after the legal propositions involved in the borough's interest, while the complainants will also be represented by counsel.

The meeting will be open to the public and more than seventy-five witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear.

ALLIED PLAN TO FORCE GERMAN REPARATIONS PAYMENT BEING FORMED

London, April 20.—The Allied policy toward Germany was being drawn to a focus today. Faced with the necessity of reaching an agreement by May 1, the next two weeks promises to be filled with conferences of allied leaders. The first of these will be held over the week end. Premier Briand of France accompanied by three officers will endeavor to persuade Italy and Great Britain that the only way to dispose of the league is to take military action.

It was recognized generally that the Supreme Council will recommend drastic action to compel German observance of the peace treaty. France informally is withholding plans for calling a new class of the colors. Great Britain is wondering whether Germany will reject the new proposals in view of the ultimatum served on the government demanding that the country's metal reserves be delivered to the Rhineland which is under Allied control.

The conference over the week end was to be informal but there was little doubt that it will shape the further policy of the Allies.

The American Steamship Owners Association announced that they would reduce the wages 20 to 30%. Various branches of seamen's unions have already agreed not to accept the cut and present counter proposals. There are about 110,000 marine workers on both coasts effected.

THE GRANARY

A Column of News and Timely Topics for the Man Who Feeds the World

Harrisburg, Pa., April 19—Because of the early spring, the sowing of seed at the State Forest Nursery near Clearfield will be completed two weeks earlier than usual, according to a report sent to the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry by District Forester Dague, of Clearfield. More than 1,000,000 young forest trees have been sent out this spring from the nursery. The seedlings will be planted on State and private lands.

Forester Dague plans to sow more than 450 pounds of forest tree seed in the Clearfield nursery. The following kinds of trees will be represented: white pine, pitch pine, Scotch pine, Japanese red pine, Japanese black pine, white spruce, Japanese larch, European larch, hemlock, and Norway spruce.

One pound of white pine seed should produce about 12,500 seedlings, and about 27,000 seedlings may be expected from a pound of Norway spruce seed.

Forester Dague has had a number of forest fires in his district recently. Most of them, he said, were caused by sparks from engines. Boys and men from Penfield and Tyler helped patrolman Lamb put out a serious fire near Penfield.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Common garden Sage and Sulphur makes streaked, faded, or gray hair dark and youthful at once.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application of two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Beginning of Modern Menageries.
The modern humans and Greeks kept in captivity leopards, lions, bears, elephants, giraffes, camels, rhinoceroses, antelopes, ostriches and crocodiles, held for slaughter at the gladiatorial shows. It is from the great feudal magnates and royal persons who frequently kept menageries of wild animals aquaria and aviaries that the modern public gardens have their origin.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Considerable excitement was manifested in this village yesterday afternoon by the finding of a tiny infant on South street, back of Leib's barn. There is no clue, as yet, as to who was the mother of the child or who left it where found.

Kongo Diamonds.

There are diamond fields in the Belgian Congo which in 1910 produced 200,000 carats, and it is estimated that the field will yield about this quantity annually in the future.

New Kind of Driver.

From a Story—"She glanced cautiously out of the window at her coffee, who stood beside her car."—Boston Transcript.

THANKFUL HE WAS NOT A WOMAN

The late Lawson Tait of England, the great woman's doctor, said he never went to bed at night without thanking heaven he was not born a woman. No doctor ever knew better than he what women have to suffer at some times of their lives. It was an American woman, long since passed to her reward, who introduced a combination of roots and herbs called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that has proved wonderfully successful in mitigating suffering and relieving diseases of women. Is has brought relief to thousands of women who suffered from female ills.

When It Looks Dark!

In Clearfield, Pa. — I had become nervous and very much run down.
I had been suffering from functional disturbances when I first learned of Dr. Pierce's Prescription. This medicine not only strengthened and built up my whole system but I ended all of my nervous disorders. Since then I always take a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Prescription whenever in need of a sore tonic and it has never failed to strengthen me it once.

The Ears in Dreams.

To dream that your ear is very large denotes riches and prosperity.
For a professional man to dream he has ears with proportioned denotes success and reputation. To lose an ear, loss of a friend. To have it cut off or disfigured, a friend will prove false.

Our Language Again.

Ferriage is what you pay for riding on a ferry but salvage is not what you spend for safe riding, and the money you pay for safe riding is not salvage. Railroad bonds are for running railroads, but baby bonds aren't for running babies.

Chief Executive's Simple Title.
The address of the President is simply "The President of the United States." There was debate over the title in the first congress. Some members proposed that he be addressed as "His Excellency," and others argued for "His Highness," but a committee reported that "it is not proper to annex any title or title other than that expressed in the Constitution."

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

"By Skinny"

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dunkhorst celebrated their golden wedding recently. In commenting on her fifty years of life with one man, Mrs.
Dunkhorst said homes would be happier, families healthier and tempers better if wives devoted less time to movies and fine clothes and attended to her household affairs.
"There wouldn't be so many divorces if wives looked after their own homes more," she remarked.
"You can keep any man happy and by your side if you consider his appetite. Give him good things to eat and don't run to the movies and come in so late that you have to buy the supper at the delicatessen shop."

A New York City magistrate named Schwab made a bid for fame the other day when he announced ponderously from the bench that "the kissing of other men's wives must stop." We are heartily in favor of such a proposition but ask or a little more light upon just how the Magistrate proposes to stop it. The husband in the case before the Magistrate employed quite an effective method in his case. The facts showed that a married lady worked as a manicure in a barber shop. Her husband called to take her to lunch. As she went into the coat room to get her things her employer followed her and kissed her. The husband punished the barber and was brought to Police Court on a charge of assault.
The magistrate delivered the above aphorism and discharged the husband.

Therefore, we take it, the kissing of other men's wives must stop if the other fellow catches you at it.
Moral: "Don't Get Ketched."

Clean-up week in Clearfield didn't raise much dust. Council and the Board of Health are thinking of enacting a law similar to that in effect in Lima, Peru. The order of the city fathers there is "paint up, fix up, or go to jail."

Those who do not follow the city's injunction before May 1 will have the work done by the city at the owner's expense, and, in addition, will be given a jail sentence or a fine.

Is there never to be anything new under the sun? Just listen to this:
Penny-in-the-slot machines were as common as half-baked orators in 4,900 B. C.

The blonde vamp stenographer is as old as the Babylonian code. Every merchant who flourished B. C. had his pet hieroglyphic stenographer.

Women of old Cretan civilization wore French heels and hair puffs, suspiciously like 1921 "bunnies."

The antecedent of the "tin lizzie" was brought into being by the Hittites thousands of years before Cassar ever knew there was a Gaul.

These are a few of the interesting and startling statements of Dr. Edgar J. Banks, well known explorer, author and lecturer, here to add to the Syracuse Archaeological Society.

According to Dr. Banks, there is nothing so new in the world after all.
The civilizations of buried centuries prove that the world moves in cycles.

If the following Paris dispatch be true, we may look for an armed truce between the regular medical practitioners and the Chiro or punch doctor's soon: "Complete cures of lethargic encephalitis, (sleeping sickness) by intravenous injections of a new serum, are reported by Professors C. Levadite and Larivel, of the Pasteur Institute. After three years of unremitting research the two savants announce two definite conclusions:

1. Encephalitis is caused by a fil-trant virus invading nervous centers, penetrating to the organisms from the nasal passages.
2. Cleanliness of the nasal channel is largely responsible for the apparent immunity enjoyed by some persons exposed to the germ.

A complete description of the serum will not be given out until it is definitely established as a certain cure.

Meanwhile the Chiro's will continue to "punch" it out of you.

Hot Water Each Morning Puts Roses in Your Cheeks

To look one's best and feel one's best, alimentary tract, before putting more to enjoy an inside bath each morning, feed the stomach.
To flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and posonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when sucked into leaves behind a certain amount of filthy residue, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.
A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is valuably more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.
Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexion should just try this for a week and notice results.

Cement and Concrete.

There is something of a confusion in the public mind about the terms cement and concrete. Cement is the dry, powdered stone, but when it is mixed with an aggregate of water and gravel or sand, it becomes concrete.

Your true friend is not one who condones all your faults, accepts your flimsy excuses for failing to redeem your promises, and is ready to sympathize with all your weaknesses and shortcomings. The person who expects you to be a man, to meet issues squarely, without evasion or shirking of responsibilities, and who insists that you play your part according to the code of honorable and energetic men, is your real friend. You would never improve or develop, but would be sure to go from bad to worse, if nobody ever brought you to book for your lazy indifference, your lack of respect for your word, or your general worthlessness. What you need is a friend who will prod you with a sharp stick when you need prodding, and not one who will extenuate or excuse all your faults because he lacks the gumption to inform you you are a poor, worthless nincompoop.

DISORGANIZED LABOR

Sound doctrine for the ears of all trades unionists is to be found in the words of Oscar Nelson, vice President of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

"Propagandists of the Soviet," he told the recent meeting of the Federation, "have no right to accept any of the benefits which have been won by organized labor."

Mr. Nelson hit the nail squarely on the head to drive it into the coffin of predatory radicalism.

Lennie and company are the apostles of disorganized labor. Their professed purpose is to set employer and employed at odds the world over.

which men produce and business flourishes.

They are out to destroy the stable economic condition in Talking blind red mutiny gets nowhere. He who brings together over the table of quiet conference, in a mutually conciliatory temper, those who have a misunderstanding is the real friend of industry, of order, of society.

Organized labor cannot accept the Communist tenet that employers are the natural and inevitable enemies of the employed. It believes that every man has his chance to rise, and it knows that the employee of today becomes the employer of tomorrow.

Organized labor in America and Bolshevism everywhere are poles asunder, alike in practice and in theory.

When will Bolshevism see that, as far as American labor is concerned, it's no use trying?

HANDLING "BAD BOYS"

Many people, noting depredations committed by boys complain of the "lawlessness of youth" as one favorite phrase goes. Very frequently the kid element does show a spirit of lawlessness that is ominous for their future. But frequently these acts are committed by youngsters of exceptional energy and vitality, who demand outlet for their animal spirits. Give those youngsters opportunity to do interesting things, and they can grow up into splendid men. But if repressed, these tendencies may lead into lawless adventure and possibly crime.

The Brockton, Mass., Chamber of Commerce had an interesting experience in dealing with a kid bunch of this type. One neighborhood in the city had trouble with the lawless boy element, and had been annoyed by many petty offences.

The Chamber of Commerce had started neighborhood gatherings and community work in four school buildings, and it was found at one of these centers that some of these troublesome boys had quite good voices. They were given a chance to sing under a musician and they liked it so much that they have kept coming for that purpose all through the winter.

At one of their meetings, one of the youngsters said that he had heard the purpose of the centre was to work for the benefit of the neighborhood, and he asked what was to be done for the boys. When they were asked what they wanted, he said they would like a swimming pool. So now an effort is to be made to give them a pool. The boys already show marked improvement, and if their energies are rightly directed, they will come out all right.

Pleasing of Furniture.

To make your friends at their ease in your home you must first make them comfortable. Many persons are embarrassed and put at a disadvantage, through no fault of their own, by careless arrangement of furniture. Rugs and footstools so placed as to trip the unwary make many an entrance so awkward as to spoil all pleasure from the start. A fragile table holding a costly Chinese lamp and placed too close to a lounge invites disaster.

Mouth Curves.

Study the sweep of a bow held in place by a cord. It adheres to the rule, "Curves are the lines of beauty." The curve, wherever found on the human body, is soft and tender. It seems to be the blending of countless curves. So it is with the mouth. I once heard the mouth of a cruel, gossip woman described as being "like a slit in a stone wall." I thought the phrase a very apt one.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Webster—Man's Man

By PETER B. KYNE

Author of "Cappy Ricks," "The Valley of the Giants," etc.

(Copyright by Peter B. Kyne)

"I can't help it, Caliph. Please don't talk about him any more. I know somebody who is kinder and nobler and gentler." She ceased abruptly, fearful of breaking down her reserve and saying too much.

"Well, if Bill's case is hopeless," his hand came groping for hers, while he held her with his searching, wistful glance—"I wonder what mine looks like. That is, Dolores, I—I—"

"Yes, John?"

"I've played fair with my friend," he whispered eagerly. "I'm not going to ask you to marry me, but I want to tell you that to me you're such a very wonderful woman I can't help loving you with my whole heart and soul."

"I have suspected this, John," she replied gravely.

"I suppose so, I'm such an obvious old fool. I've had my dream, and I've put it behind me, but I—I just want you to know I love you; so long as I live, I shall want to serve you. When you're married to this other man, and things do not break just right for you both—if I have something he wants, in order to make you happy, I want you to know it's yours to give to him. I—I—I—guess that's all, Dolores."

"Thank you, John. Would you like to know this man I'm going to marry?"

"Yes, I think I'd like to congratulate the scoundrel."

"Then I'll introduce you to him, John. I first met him on a train in Death Valley, California. He was a shaggy old dear, all whiskers and rags, but his whiskers couldn't hide his smile, and his rags couldn't hide his manhood, and when he thrashed a drummer because the man annoyed me, I just couldn't help falling in love with him. Even when he flubbed to me and disputed my assertion that we had met before—"

"Good land of love—and the calves get loose!" he almost shouted as he held up his one sound arm to her. "My dear, my dear—"

"Oh, sweetheart," she whispered laying her hot cheek against his. "It's taken you so long to say it, but I love you all the more for the dear thoughts that made you hesitate."

He was silent a few moments, digesting his amazement, speechless with the great happiness that was his—and then Dolores was kissing the back of the hand of that helpless, bandaged arm lying across his breast. He had a tightening in his throat, for he had not expected love; and that sweet, benignant, humble little kiss spelled adoration and eternal surrender; when she looked at him again the mists of joy were in his eyes.

"Dear old Caliph John!" she crooned. "He's never had a woman to understand his funny ways and appreciate them and take care of him, has he?" She patted his cheek. "And bless his simple old heart, he would rather give up his love than be false to his friend. Yes, indeed, Johnny Webster respects 'No Shooting' signs when he sees them, but he tells ribs and pretends to be very stupid when he really isn't. So you wouldn't be false to Billy—eh, dear? I'm glad to know that, because the man who cannot be false to his friend can never be false to his wife."

He crushed her down to him and held her there for a long time. "My dear," he said presently, "isn't there something you have to say to me?"

"I love you, John," she whispered, and sealed the sweet confession with a true lover's kiss.

"All's well with the world," John Stuart Webster announced when he could use his lips once more for conversation. "And," he added, "owing to the fact that I started a trifle late in life, I believe I could stand a little more of the same."

The door opened and Ricardo looked in on them.

"Killjoy!" Webster growled. "Old Killjoy the Thirteenth, King of Sobriety. Is this a surprise to you?"

"Not a bit of it, Jack. I knew it was due."

"Am I welcome in the Rucy family?" Ricardo came over and kissed his sister. "Don't be a lobster, Jack," he protested. "I dislike foolish questions." And he pressed his friend's hand with a fervor that testified to his pleasure.

"I'm sorry to crowd in at a time like this, Jack," he continued, with a bug for Dolores, "but Mr. What-you-may-call-him, the American consul, has called to pay his respects. As a fellow citizen of yours, he is vitally interested in your welfare. Would you care to receive him for a few minutes?"

"One minute will do," Webster declared with emphasis. "Show the human slug up, Rick."

Mr. Lennel Tolliver tripped breezily in with outstretched hand. "My dear Mr. Webster," he began, but Webster cut him short with a peremptory gesture.

"Laren, friend Tolliver," he said. "The only reason I received you was to tell you I'm going to remain in this country awhile and help develop it."

I may even conclude to grow up with it. I shall not, of course, renounce my American citizenship; and of course, as an American citizen, I am naturally interested in the man my country sends to Sobriety to represent it. I might as well be frank and tell you that you won't do. I called on you once to do your duty, and you weren't there; I told you then I might have something to say about your job later on, and now I'm due to say it. Mr. Tolliver, I'm the power behind the throne in this little Jim-crow country, and to quote your own elegant phraseology, you, as American consul, are aux vomica to the Sobriety government. Moreover, as soon as the Sobriety ambassador reaches Washington, he's going to tell the president that you are, and then the president will be courteous enough to remove you. In the meantime, fare thee well, Mr. Consul."

"But, Mr. Webster—"

"Vaya!"

Mr. Tolliver, appreciating the utter futility of argument, bowed and departed.

"Verily, life grows sweeter with each passing day," Webster murmured whimsically. "Rick, old man, I think you had better escort the consul to the front door. Your presence is aux vomica to me also. See that you buck me up and dispose of that fellow Tolliver, or you can't come to our wedding—can he, sweetheart?"

When Ricardo had taken his departure John Stuart Webster looked up quite seriously at his wife-to-be. "Can you explain to me, Dolores," he asked, "how it happened that your relatives and your father's old friends here in Sobriety, whom you met shortly after your arrival, never informed you that Ricardo was living?"

"They didn't know any more about him than I did, and he left here as a mere boy. He was scarcely acquainted with his relatives, all of whom bowed quite submissively to the Sarros yoke. Indeed, my father's half-brother, Antonio Rucy, actually accepted a portfolio under the Sarros regime and held it up to his death. Ricardo has a wholesome contempt for his relatives, and as for his father's old friends, none of them knew anything about his plans. Apparently his identity was known only to the Sarros intelligence bureau, and it did not permit the information to leak out."

"Funny mix up," he commented. "And by the way, where did you get all the inside dope about Neddy Jerome?"

She laughed and related to him the details of Neddy's perfidy.

"And you actually agreed to deliver me, hog-tied and helpless, to that old schemer, Dolores?"

"Why not, dear, I loved you; I always meant to marry you, if you'd let before—" me; and $10,000 would have lasted me for a long time."

"Well, you and Neddy have both lost out. Better send the old pelican a cable and wake him out of his day dream."

"I sent the cable yesterday, John dear."

"Extraordinary woman!"

"I've just received an answer. Neddy has spent nearly $50 telling me by cable what a fine man you are and how thankful I ought to be to the good Lord for permitting you to marry me."

"Dolores, you are perfectly amazing. I only proposed to you a minute ago."

"I know you did, slow-poke, but that is not your fault. You would have proposed to me yesterday, only I thought best not to disturb you until you were a little stronger. This evening, however, I made up my mind to settle the matter, and so I—"

"But suppose I hadn't proposed to you, after all?"

"Then, John, I should have proposed to you, I fear."

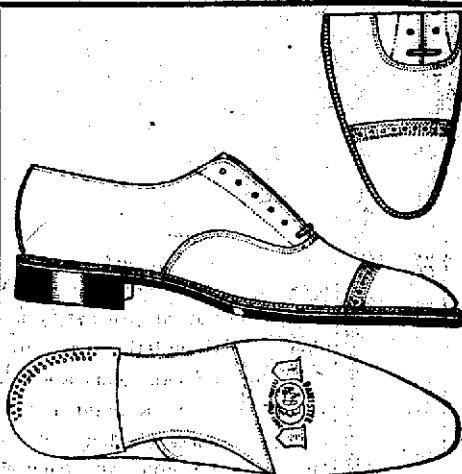

"But you were running an awful risk, sending that telegram to Neddy Jerome."

She took one large red ear in each little hand and shook his head lovingly. "Silly," she whispered, "don't be a goose. I knew you loved me; I would have known it, even if Neddy Jerome hadn't told me so. So I played a safe game, all the way through, and oh, dear Caliph John, I'm so happy I could cry."

"God bless my raddered soul," John Stuart Webster murmured helplessly. The entire matter was quite beyond his comprehension.

The Success of a Shoe

Not only depends on how it's made and the kind of leather it is made of, but on how it fits. Unless the shoe fits properly at every point, it is likely to cause a lot of foot trouble.

Correct shoe fitting is a part of our service; a part of our business. Our sales people are skilled in the art of fitting shoes for comfort as well as for good looks.

SNAP--- That's What Young Men Want

We have it here for them. Oxfords with a lot of snap and go. Young fellows like the new style Brogue pattern. They are made without the long wing tip. Either Calf or Cordovan leathers. They have a lot of style and lots of comfort.

These are great values! Lytle Bros. Oxfords always have been great shoe values. You can't find any better ones. We are selling them this year at lower prices, very low considering the quality you get.

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Gently massage Musterole in with the finger-tips. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.

Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Babylonian Division of Time. The Babylonians gave up an hour with 60 minutes. They divided the sun's path into 24 parangs, measure equal to about four and a half miles, or the distance a Babylonian soldier could hike in an hour with full pack. The astronomers of that day somehow worked it out that the sun made the same progress. They divided the sun's whole course into 24 parangs, or 360 degrees; each parang, or hour, being divided into 60 minutes, and then, having fallen on evil days, they handed the system down to the Greeks, who passed it on.

Cloth Upholstery.

Cloth upholstery may be best cleaned by beating curtains and backs lightly with a stick or carpet beater, after which the accumulated dust is whisked off with a brush. Grease or oil may be removed by an application of lukewarm water and mild soap, applied with a wooden cloth. There are a number of woolen cleaners which will work very well on cloth upholstery, but gasoline and benzine have a tendency to spread instead of to remove dirt.

The Seven Weeks' War.

The Seven Weeks' war was a brief war in 1866 between Prussia and Italy on one side and Austria and her German allies (Bavaria, Wurttemberg, Baden, Saxony, Hesse-Cassel, Hanover, Nassau) on the other. The war was the culmination of Bismarck's plan for forcing Austria out of the German confederation and making way for a new Germany under Prussian leadership.

Trade News of Local Interest

A bulletin on the oil situation put out by Montgomery and Company indicates that domestic companies have a period of prosperity ahead of them. The bulletin tends to show that the Mexican fields are being exploited in such a manner that they cannot compete for long with domestic producers and that American investors in oil will do well to stick to Uncle Sam's back yard. Those interested in this bulletin should write to Montgomery & Company or to their local representative for bulletin on "The Oil Situation".

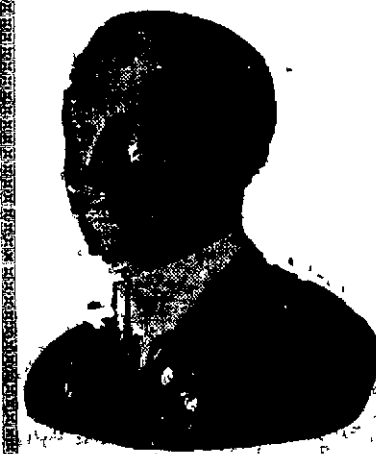

Mr. Samuel Rea, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, very effectively refutes the claims of union leaders that his road has been squandering money by having locomotive repairs done by outside shops. In a four page letter made public on April 17, he gives facts and figures showing that only about six per cent of the Pennsy's work has been done outside and thus at a labor cost of less than they could have done it for themselves.

The Clearfield Trust Company recently put out a very interesting booklet with chart showing the descent and distribution of real and personal property in Pennsylvania of persons dying without a will. It is not so much the volume of material contained in the booklet that makes it valuable but the manner in which it is put up. A close perusal of the chart should convince every person of the advisability of making a will and distributing his property in accordance with his own ideas and otherwise the law will take a course that, while just in most cases, would work a hardship on descendants in many instances.

Coats for Little Folks

IN COATS for little folks as in their hats, the season repeats many style features of importance in grown-up apparel. "Just like mama's" appears to be a strong argument in favor of anything that little ladies from four to eight have the privilege of choosing for themselves. In utility coats there are such amusing little affairs as the miniature shown above where a brown, rough surface cloth is made up with machine stitching for decoration on its wide, cape collar and roomy sleeves and a narrow belt that crosses at the front and buttons at each side. It is as much like grown-ups in these features as it can be.

Similar coats with narrower collars are shown in sturdy wool materials woven in youthful pattern, as black and white checks, tan or grey with small cross bars in green or red—navy and red—or other lively combinations. It is the material that is featured in these and not the style which is simply the straight coat with plain sleeve and round collar. They fasten with bone buttons. The very little girls are indulged in pretty taffeta or crepe coats. Here also they follow the lead of grown-ups, for the display reveals many models in gray, bisque and light beige but blue and rose color have not been entirely neglected and a whole bevy of cherry-red taffeta coats find enthusiastic admirers in the little folk and among their mothers. Many of the silk and crepe coats have bonnets to match.

Between the utility coat and these splendid silk affairs for state occasions, there are pretty models made of light-weight velours, broadcloth and often these are decorated with a little embroidery in the color of the coat. Poirer twill is another favored fabric and covert cloth will never be out-rivalled. It is shown with machine stitching for a finish with bone buttons one looks for in its company. Many cloth coats are double breasted and an occasional model features buttons in two rows down the front of the double breast.

SUFFERING OF A LIFETIME ENDED

Words Can't Express Gratitude I Feel Toward Tanlac Says Mrs. Burrington

"From childhood until I got Tanlac, I suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble," said Mrs. J. A. Burrington, 540 Stanford Ave., Los Angeles, Calif., "and that's been a long time, I'm now in my sixty-eighth year.

"I remember when I was a child I was kept on a strict diet of lime water and milk for weeks and I have been in constant distress all these years. I suffered terribly from bloating and had to be very careful of what I ate. I became so weak and nervous I could hardly go about my housework and was in a miserable condition.

"About two years ago my husband got such splendid results from Tanlac he insisted on my taking it and the medicine wasn't but a little while in ridding me of my troubles. It gave me a splendid appetite and I could enjoy a good hearty meal, even things I hadn't dared to touch before, without any fear of it troubling me.

"Then I had the influenza and became dreadfully sick and weak, but my stomach kept in good order and it only took four bottles of Tanlac to build me up again to where I'm now feeling better than at any time I can remember. I have gained eleven pounds in weight, too, and words can't express the gratitude I feel toward Tanlac. I keep Tanlac in the house all the time now, for I know it is a medicine that can be depended upon."

SANDY TOWNSHIP FOR GOOD ROADS

A splendid victory was gained yesterday for the proponents of good roads for this vicinity, says The DuBois Courier, when the voters of Sandy township stamped with their approval the proposed bond issue of $55,000, the majority being most impressive. A total of 487 people for the proposed bond issue, while only 144 voted against it. This is a victory by a margin of over three to one, and makes it very evident that large majority of the citizens of Sandy township are eager that improvement to the roads of that district be made. The three larger districts all give good majorities for the bond issue, while Clear Run and Falls Creek gave small majorities against it. These two last named districts do not get any of the proposed new roads and that probably explains their opposition to it. There was also some opposition in the West district of Sandy, a large number of the people of the West Liberty district being opposed to the proposed improvements, because none of it was to be made in that section. It should be remembered that most of the roads in the West Liberty sector have been taken over by the State and will eventually be improved.

The bond issue voted yesterday provides for the improvement of the road leading from South Brady street to Main street on Dixon avenue; the road leading from the city line to the State road at Shaft No. 1, and for the road leading from Narrows Creek to Sabula. The last named community showed its great desire for the improvement by voting solidly for the bond issue, not a negative vote being cast.

The success of the bond issue means that the township will receive back in improved roads some of the money paid over to the county as taxes. The township only furnishes one-fourth of the money for the improvement of the road in question, the State appropriating one-half, the township one-fourth and the county the other fourth.

One More Credit Given China.

Capt. Stanley Flower, director of the zoological gardens at Giza, Cairo, Egypt, has prepared considerable data on the subject, which he obtained from authoritative sources. According to Captain Flower, though the ancient Egyptians kept wild animals in captivity, the first zoological garden of which there is definite knowledge was founded by the first emperor of the Chou dynasty, about eleven B. C. in China. It was called the "Intelligence Park" and had a scientific and educational object.

COURT NOTES

The Bickford Store, a Curwensville concern, went into the hands of a Receiver in a friendly action brought by Moore & Wilson in the Clearfield County Courts on Monday last.

The statement filed recites that the assets of the firm are $32,000, with liabilities of $30,000, and that while it is the belief of the plaintiff that the defendant concern is solvent and has sufficient assets to meet its obligations, present trade conditions and inability to collect moneys due, falling off in trade, and no current funds to meet present obligations, make it necessary for a receivership to work it out in the interest of all concerned.

Judge Bell appointed John H. Moore, of Clearfield, temporary Receiver, and he took charge of the store at once.

A wonderful echo can be heard in a room in the castle of Sinuottin, near Milan. A loud noise, such as a pistol shot, is repeated 60 times.

Curious Masterpieces.

Literary masterpieces have been written on strange mediums. Smart's poem, "Song to David," was written with a key on the walls of a madhouse. Coleridge once wrote a sonnet on a scrap of seaweed.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood, and purifying the entire system. They do that which calomel does, without any of the bad after effects. Take one or two every night for a week and note the pleasing effect.

Mahua Tree Produces Alcohol.

A new source of alcohol for commercial purposes has been found in the mahua tree, which flourishes in India.
